Competition Economist

Case Associates has a vacancy for a recent graduate in industrial economics and econometrics to assist its clients with economic and empirical analysis in competition law, regulation and litigation.

About Case Associates

Case is an economics consulting practice based in London. Since 2004 Case has been ranked in Global Competition Review's the "Economics 20" of the top 20 competition economics practices world-wide. Its senior partner is ranked as one of the world's leading competition economists by GCR and Euromoney.

Case routinely assists companies in responding to the European Commission and national competition and regulatory authorities on matters such as dominance, restrictive agreements, price-fixing (cartels), and in litigation providing damage calculations and expert witness reports. Case economists have recently undertaken assignments in the telecommunications, media, airport, airline, paper, health, banking, credit cards, insurance, plastics, gas, and tobacco sectors. We undertake assignments across Europe, and the Asia Pacific region. Further general information can be found at www.casecon.com

Who we are looking for

The candidate will have a post-graduate economics degree with specialisations in industrial economics and strong quantitative skills in econometrics including competence with STATA and Excel spreadsheets. The candidate should be ambitious and self-motivated, who can fluently communicate and write, and able to work to tight deadlines. A working knowledge in a major European language in addition to English would be an advantage.

The successful candidate will work with Dr Veljanovski so that he or she can expect to gain considerable training and experience with direct client contact. The position would suit a person who is self-motivated, hardworking and ambitious, and importantly wishes to work in a small team.

Applicants should send their CV together with a letter realistically setting out their ability to meet the above job requirements; the names of two referees (one of which should have experience in the above areas); and salary expectations by email to office@casecon.com. There is no closing date for this position.

Those wishing to have a preliminary confidential discussion may contact Dr Cento Veljanovski, managing partner at +44 (0)20 7376 4418 or office@casecon.com.
